The Bennett-Curtis House

"The place for a unique and elegant dining experience in a Turn-of-the-Century Mansion"

The Bennett-Curtis House, an 18-room mansion, was built in 1900 by George M. Bennett. It is set on spacious grounds shaded by 100-year-old maples, flanked by bubbling fountains, sweeping lawns, lush cool ferns and colorful flower beds. An old-time veranda is furnished with a swing originally purchased for the house in 1918 at Marshall Fields. A legacy from the Bennett's occupancy of the house is an exquisite Bristol Vase displayed on the fireplace mantel in the foyer.

In 1919, Illinois Senator Edward C. Curtis bought the mansion and made many major renovations, including conversion to electricity and the addition of two sun porches.

You'll enjoy soaking up the atmosphere when you visit this stately old mansion. Perhaps you will be seated in the living room, featuring a turret with original curved windows and hardwood floors with inlays; formal dining room with moray cloth walls; sun porch; rose room, featuring a beautiful 7 1/2' circular piece of stained glass; breakfast room; garden room overlooking the back yard gardens; or one of the 2 upstairs private dining rooms. All beautifully furnished and decorated with antiques and hung with rich velvet drapes. Be sure to visit the Senator's lounge on the main floor featuring a 100 year old bar.
